Art Unit: 1614

Claims 1-3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 23, 25, 26 and 27 are presented for examination.

Applicants' request for continued examination, amendment, and response filed May 9, 2008 have been received and entered.

Accordingly, the rejection made under 35 USC 102(b) as being anticipated by DesMarais et al. (5,260,345) as set forth in the previous Office action dated January 14, 2008 at pages 2-3 is hereby withdrawn because the DesMarais et al. reference did not teach or suggest the composition is suitable for oral administration.

Accordingly, the rejection made under 35 USC 103(a) as being obvious over Park et al. (5,750,585) in view of Niazi (6,251,241) as set forth in the previous Office action dated January 14, 2008 at pages 3-4 is hereby withdrawn because the Park et al. reference did not teach or suggest the polymeric foam is high internal phase emulsion foam (HIPE) and the composition is suitable for oral administration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 23, 25, 26 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

This is a written description rejection.

Art Unit: 1614

A lack of adequate written description issue arises if the knowledge and level of skill in the art would not permit one skilled in the art to immediately envisage the product claimed from the disclosed process. See, e.g., Fujikawa v. Wattanasin, 93 F.3d 1559, 1571, 39 USPQ2d 1895, 1905 (Fed. Cir. 1996) (a "laundry list" disclosure of every possible moiety does not constitute a written description of every species in a genus because it would not "reasonably lead" those skilled in the art to any particular species); In re Ruschig, 379 F.2d 990, 995, 154 USPQ 118, 123 (CCPA 1967).

An applicant may also show that an invention is complete by disclosure of sufficiently detailed, relevant identifying characteristics which provide evidence that applicant was in possession of the claimed invention, i.e., complete or partial structure, other physical and/or chemical properties, functional characteristics when coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or some combination of such characteristics.

In particular, the specification as original filed fails to provide sufficient written bases of any of the agents demonstrating wherein possession of use of the broad terms: a polymeric material, a lipase inhibitor, lipase inhibitors and combination thereof, a non-digestible, non-absorbable, open-celled polymeric foam. The mere fact that Applicant may have discovered one type of polymeric material may be used to formulate the non-digestible, non-absorbable, open-celled polymeric foam is not sufficient to claim the entire genus. Also the addition of one type of lipase inhibitor with the instant composition is not sufficient to claim the entire genus. The mere fact the Applicant may have discovered a kit with one type of non-digestible, non-absorbable, open-celled polymeric foam is not sufficient to claim the entire genus (claim 27).

The written description requirement for a claimed genus may be satisfied through sufficient description of a representative number of species by actual reduction to practice, reduction to drawings, or by disclosure of relevant, identifying characteristics, i.e., structure or other physical and/or chemical properties, by functional characteristics coupled with a known or disclosed correlation between function and structure, or by a combination of such identifying characteristics, sufficient to show the applicant was in possession of the claimed genus. See Eli Lilly, 119 F.3d at 1568, 43 USPQ2d at 1406.

A "representative number of species" means that the species which are adequately described are representative of the entire genus. Thus, when there is substantial variation within the genus, one must describe a sufficient variety of species to reflect the variation within the genus. The disclosure of only one species encompassed within a genus adequately describes a claim directed to that genus only if the disclosure "indicates that the patentee has invented species sufficient to constitute the gen[us]."

Claims 1-3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 23, 25, 26 and 27 are not allowed.
